

Statement of purpose

Statement of purpose is documents where you free to write about yourself demonstrating you are the best applicants by stating your best skills regarding academic performance, leadership, and work capability. There is no other opportunity to say yourself by you to convince the admission committee. This document not only assess your career goal but also your writing skills and so, level of English language.

Some useful tips how to write SOP and sell yourself to get admission and scholarship too.

- Motivation to study that particular subject and higher education.
- Career goal and how the courses and colleges help to get your career goal.
- Demonstrate your skills not in a fancy way and some weak points in positive way.
- Research experience or capability if you are graduate applicant
- Work experience (if any) which is helpful to your next step education and motivation.
- Establish the relation between work experience and subject of higher study.
- Your future plan and the support from the next level study you are intended.
- Study about education and environment in the college you are applying and explain how it helps you to achieve your goal.

Note:

- ❖ Take time as much as you can and get comments and feedback from your friends and others.
- ❖ In no way are grammatical mistakes acceptable; and abstract statements are highly discouraged.
